

Is your body balanced for peak performance?

The Endocrine System Is Your Body's Command Central.

When functioning well, its glands direct operations by producing vital hormones that send signals to keep you ready for anything and help your body stay balanced.

Crucial support for your glands.

Because this important control centre ultimately influences almost every cell organ and function of your body, making sure it gets the nutrients it needs is a must. Mannatech's PLUS™ tablets, can help by keeping this vital system functioning smoothly in a state of equilibrium.

Mannatech's PLUS tablets do not contain hormones. Instead, they provide specific nutrients, including plant sterols to support your glands' natural function.

Could you use some support in one of these areas?

- Breast health
- Prostate health
- Bone health
- Colon health
- Immune health
- Heart health

Amino acids—the “building blocks” of proteins

Did you know that of the 20 amino acids that we all need to survive, the human body produces only 10? We must rely on our diets for the other half, but not all proteins are created equal. Some contain specific amino acids for hormone productions while others do not. And because humans don't store amino acids in their bodies, we need a steady supply every day.

Take your first step toward wellness today.
